"Rough Rider," and a cousin of the owner, William J. Ward, President of the Coney Island Bank, was arraigned to-day before Magistrate Nash, in the Coney Island Court, to answer a charge of homicide. The police alleged that he permitted negligert driving of the car which caused the tragedy, but as they did not produce any witnesses to substantiate the Official Inquiry Is Begun Into charge, the case was adjourned until Friday and Ward continued in his bail

> Magistrate Nash said he believed the police would have difficulty in proving neglect on Ward's part, and thought that civil action for damages alone could be instituted against him. Ward's counsel, Wilson & Van Wagoner, of No. 164 Montague Street, Brooklyn, stated that they would produce witnesses to prove that the "Rough Rider" was safe and that it had only recently been inspected by the Building Department.

It is not believed the exact cause of the accident will ever be known, as the driver was instantly killed when the two-car train leaped from the rent earnings and the expectation that there would be legislation to re-tain a duty on imports of sugar to prevent the industry being destroyed

The very volume of the Sale is impressive. Here, for instance, - a detail only-is a collection of $30,000 worth of C. P. Limbert Mission Furniture to be sold for $15,000. Among the bedroom suites alone—to take another example—are TWELVE absolutely new designs, each clever enough, beautiful enough, and GOOD enough, to make the reputation of a lesser concern. There are ONE HUNDRED different and complete dining room suites.

To list all in detail is impossible. To even hint at the resources of this greatest of great Furniture Sales would take this whole page. But—for your special attention when you come tomorrow—we must mention these:
